Taking Action & Getting Results

My mom, a Marine, believed in commitment and the value of education. We had to set goals, write them down and commit to them. With each accomplishment, our self-confidence grew.

That foundation helped me overcome many challenges — like becoming a single mother in college. That wasn't on my list, but it didn't change my educational goals. It did, however, teach me the joy of parental love.

I found ways to raise my children, and continue my education... becoming a lifelong learner, earning three degrees. I understand difficulties faced by students — but also know what self-confidence and determination can accomplish.

We need to impart that message to our children.

Election Day is Tuesday, November 5, 2024

Commitment to Kids & Community From helping raise over $200,000 in endowed scholarships at Dillard, Southern, and Xavier... to creating a STEM initiative for middle school students... to participating in NOPD's community mediation program... KaTrina's commitment is well documented.
