

My mom, a Marine, believed in commitment and the value of education. We had to set goals, write them down and commit to them. With each accomplishment, our self-confidence grew.

That foundation helped me overcome many challenges — like becoming a single mother in college. That wasn't on my list, but it didn't change my educational goals. It did, however, teach me the joy of parental love.

I found ways to raise my children, and continue my education... becoming a lifelong learner, earning three degrees. I understand difficulties faced by students — but also know what self-confidence and determination can accomplish.

We need to impart that message to our children.

“I believe every child in our district has untapped potential. We must create an education system that empowers all students to achieve their goals and builds a brighter future for our children and our community.”

Proud Public School Parent KaTrina is a proud parent of Iniko Jr. and Karlee, who are both graduates of New Orleans Public Schools. KaTrina firmly believes we must create an education system that empowers all students to achieve their goals and build a brighter future.

Commitment to Kids & Community From helping raise over $200,000 in endowed scholarships at Dillard, Southern, and Xavier... to creating a STEM initiative for middle school students... to participating in NOPD's community mediation program... KaTrina's commitment is well documented.
